

Coming soon!

City of Seattle Race and Social Justice 2008 Speaker Series

Thursday, February 14

J.W. Wiley and Eddie Moore Jr.

9-11 a.m. Landes Room, City Hall

The 'N' Word: A Historical Message of Madness, an Important Method of Polarization

J.W.Wiley is a lecturer in philosophy and minority studies at Plattsburgh State University of New York; Eddie Moore is Seattle's Bush School's Director of Diversity. Their presentation will take a look at the history of the "N" word and will challenge participants to examine their personal and professional histories with the "N" word. Wiley and Moore will offer suggestions about the importance of understanding the realities associated with the word and recommend how to challenge all people about the ramifications of casual or uninformed usage of this extremely troublesome word.

Coming soon ... watch for more information:

Thursday, February 28

Frederick Gooding and Khalid Peterson

9-11 a.m. Landes Room, City Hall

You Mean There's Race in My Movie?

Thursday, April 17

John Palmer

9-11 a.m. Landes Room, City Hall

Karate Chops, Geishas and Nerds:

Asians and Asian Americans in the Media

Free and open to all City employees!

For more information: elliott.bronstein@seattle.gov 684-4507, or darlene.flynn@seattle.gov 684-0291

Sponsored by the Seattle Office for Civil Rights/Race and Social Justice Initiative

<http://inweb/rsji/events.htm>

Thanks to the Bush School for their support of these events.